

Exercise 8: Decision Board Records

You did a lot of work in accomplishing the earlier exercises. Let's cut you a little slack for a change. Just this once.

Now would be a good time to determine where, when and how to publish the results of board decisions.

Obviously, they need to be posted where anyone who needs to know about these decisions can find them.

Naturally you will publicize the availability of this information, but it must not depend on a special website link or other. If it is to survive the current month, this information must be located somewhere that people can discover it by themselves.

This unaccustomed level of transparency may seem scary to many people at first. After a few months go by and the sky fails to fall, they will get over it.
